

Teen drowns in rock quarry

SHELBYVILLE (UPI) — A 16-year-old high school sophomore drowned while swimming in an abandoned rock quarry Sunday, officials said.

James Daryl Ledbetter, a student at Central High School, was swimming with three other friends and attempted to cross the quarry when he began struggling in the water, said Jimmy Anderton, one of his companions, Monday.

Anderton said he and one of the other teenagers tried to rescue Ledbetter, but could not because he struggled with them.

The group telephoned for help about 6 p.m., and rescue workers recovered Ledbetter's body at about 10:30 p.m., officials said.

Ledbetter is survived by his parents, John T. and Carolyn Ledbetter, who own Lake Elaine, a popular local fishing spot.

1985 Apr teen drowns at quarry

Clipped By:
usmra_rob
Oct 12, 2024