

THREE LITTLE BOYS DROWN.

Young Lads Wade Over Ledge in Quarry Pond.

Albion, N. Y., June 8.—Three boys ranging in ages from seven to nine years were drowned in an abandoned stone quarry here today. They were Vincent Lupo, Angelo Restivo and James Kiso. No one saw the drowning. Their clothing was found on the bank by a companion and a search resulted in the recovery of the three bodies. The water was shallow near the edge of the pond, but out a short distance took a quick drop to 30 feet and it is believed the boys, who could not swim, waded over the ledge.
