

---

DROWNS IN QUARRY

Louis Spors, thirteen years old, 521 Cornwall street, was drowned in Rupp's abandoned stone quarry in Kensington avenue near Grider street. The boy slipped from a stone while fishing.

After the body was recovered from the water physicians worked for several hours with a pulmotor but all efforts to restore life were unavailable. Last summer there were six drownings at the quarry. There has been only one thus far this season.

---

1920 Jun Louis Spors drowns at quarry NY

Clipped By:
usmra_rob
Dec 15, 2024