By Associated Press to The Patriot

Johnstown, Jan. 13.—Charles Orsargos and Andrew Zeralk, aged 9 and 10 years, respectively, drowned today when the ice broke on a dam near Windber where they were skating. The Zeralk lad lost his life when he attempted to rescue his companion who had broken through the ice.

Tony Orsagos, a brother of one of the drowned boys, attempted to rescue the two youngsters and also broke through the ice but was rescued when a large pole was handed into the dam as an aid to him to reach shore.
