

3 DROWN IN QUARRY POOL.

Bodies of Two Women and Man Found
Near Chicago Suburb—Seek
Body of Another.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Mysteriously drowned Monday night in a quarry pool near Elmhurst, a suburb, the bodies of a middle-aged man and woman and the nearly nude body of a young woman were recovered yesterday.

The man was identified as George L. Townsend of Chicago. The women were Mrs. Dorothy Barr and Mrs. Emma Mack. William Barr, the husband, is missing and the quarry is being dragged in the belief that he may have been a member of the auto party with the other three.

Mrs. Barr and Mrs. Mack left their homes here in a motor car to go to Maywood, a suburb, and later to Joliet for a visit. The authorities believe that the car with its occupants plunged into the water when the driver made an effort to turn it on the edge of the quarry. The presence of Townsend had not been explained.
