

Eight Year Old Boy Drowns in Pond on Hudson Falls Road

Attempts of Firemen to Revive Ivan
Jarvis Fail

CORONER DECIDES DEATH ACCIDENT

Companion Tells Officials Victim Slipped Off Plank
Into Water

By SHERMAN LITCHFIELD
An eight-year-old boy drowned late yesterday afternoon in water-filled stone quarry on the Boulevard, between Glens Falls and Hudson Falls, where less than a year ago the life of a seven-year-old girl was claimed in an accident of a similar nature. The body of the boy, Ivan Jarvis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Jarvis of 187 Warren street, this city, was recovered within less than a half hour, but efforts to revive him failed. Glens Falls firemen and volunteers worked over the body for an hour before hope was abandoned. Harold Kenny, 10, of 171 Warren street, this city, who was with the Jarvis boy at the quarry, told Dr. John J. Dever and Trooper Frank R. Russell that the drowning victim was floating on a plank in water over his head and that he slipped into the water when he lost his hold on the plank.

Companion Gives Alarm
The Kenny boy ran to a home some distance away where he spread the alarm, and Sylvian Newhouse, 21, of Monty's bridge, rushed to the pool, plunged in and immediately recovered the body. The Kenny boy, confused and scared, was unable to tell how long the body had remained in the water, but officials figured it was no more than a half hour.

Young Jarvis lost his life in the same pool in which Dorothy Helen Czerwinski, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Czerwinski of Monty's Bridge, drowned last July 19 while playing about the quarry.

Fire Chief Gates and Firemen Roy Robillard and Robert Shannahan went to the quarry in the fire chief's car with the inductor, and both that instrument and the prone pressure method of resuscitation were used in an effort to revive the boy.

With late afternoon traffic at its height, scores of motorists were attracted to the scene, parking their cars along the Boulevard highway west of Monty's Bridge. In an effort to avoid congestion and accidents, Trooper Russell warned many of the curious motorists to continue on their way and left almost a score of tickets in cars abandoned by their occupants who were at the drowning scene.

Verdict Accidental
The quarry in which the accident occurred, is operated by the Queensbury Stone company, of 22 Farry street, Hudson Falls. It consists of two quarry pits, one of which is visible from the road. The second, in which both the Jarvis and the Czerwinski tragedies occurred, lies to the rear of the pool near the road. Both pits contain water.

Dr. Dever, Warren county coroner, who investigated both the Jarvis and the Czerwinski drownings, urged last night that an appeal be made to parents residing in the vicinity of the quarry to instruct their children to stay away from the dangerous spot. His request came when he made announcement of an accidental drowning verdict in yesterday's death.

The Jarvis boy was born in Glens Falls and attended the Imperial crossing school. He would have been nine years of age the thirty-first of this month. Surviving besides his parents are one sister, Rita, and two brothers, Clayton and Maynard.

National W. C. T. U.
Plans Third Party

MILWAUKEE, July 5 (P).—Dis- satisfied with the stand taken by both major political parties, the annual convention of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union today adopted a resolution proposing a third party which would attract dry voters.

The plea for the resolution was made from the floor of the convention. The members of the committee hastily assembled and later submitted the following resolution: "As the leaders of the major political parties are supporting the repeal of the 18th amendment, we call upon dry men and women in every state to consider sympathetically proposals for the formation of a new political party which will actively support the principles and policies of prohibition, along with other great moral issues. The times call for citizens to return to the standard of justice and honesty set by the framers of the constitution."

VIOLATION COSTS TURNER AIR RACE

Failure to Circle Pylon Gives Jimmie Wedell First Place
at Los Angeles

WOMEN PLAN FLIGHTS

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, LOS AN- GELES, July 5 (P).—A technical violation of the rules governing closed course racing took first place from Col. Roscoe Turner today in the valuable 100-mile event of the national air races and gave victory to Jimmie Wedell, New Orleans pilot.

The Californian was disqualified by the contest committee for failure to circle the fourth pylon on the first lap of the race, run yesterday. Although Turner, on the next lap, recircled the pylon, the committee cited the regulation requiring the pilot to correct such a mistake immediately before proceeding on the remainder of the course.

First place prize money of $3,375 was handed to Wedell, who ran second to Turner in speed.

Elimination of Turner from the event moved each contestant up a notch. Gehlbach went into second place with prize money of $1,975. Roy Minor of Hollywood, pilot of Howard's ship, became third place winner, and got the accompanying price, $1,125. George Hague of Los Angeles advanced to fourth place and won $750 and Z. D. Granville of Springfield, Mass., took last place and $375.

Never Saw Pylon
Turner said he never saw the fourth pylon in the thick haze which covered the 10-mile course as he tore around the first lap but he had the impression he had not made the turn. He said he did not recircle the pylon then because he knew other ships were not far behind and he was afraid of cutting across them.

Wedell said he saw Turner miss the fourth pylon on the first lap and "figured Roscoe never saw it." He said half-way between the third and fourth pylons, Turner passed him, some 200 feet overhead, and after "cutting the pylon he flew far wide of the course."
