

'WAS ONLY FOOLING' BUT YOUTH DROWNS

Ten Companions Stood and Watched Till Too Late

Snyder, N.Y., June 9.—Because his companions thought he was only fooling, Raymond F. Cook, 19, was drowned last night while swimming in an abandoned quarry. When Cook disappeared below the surface, then came up and shouted for help, one of ten companions who were watching him remarked: "He's only fooling." They stood and watched Cook until they realized it was too late to save him.

1933 Jun Raymond Cook drowns at quarry
NY

Clipped By:
usmra_rob
Dec 20, 2024