

EXPECTS TO AID

Washington, June 24 (AP)—Exports from the Navy Diving School went to Marlinton, W. Va., today to aid in recovery of the body of William Jones, drowned several days ago in a 100-foot deep pool of water in an abandoned quarry. Lieutenant J. B. Kenn, in charge of the school, took Master Diver Garland Suggs with him to survey the quarry and determine whether it would be possible to descend into the pool.

1937 Jun William Jones drowns at quarry
WV

Clipped By:
usma_rob
Dec 26, 2024