

Edmonson Man Pulls Wife, Three Children From Water

BROWNSVILLE, Ky. (Spl.) — A Brownsville resident, ill and crippled, rescued three children and his wife from an abandoned asphalt quarry which is filled with water.

Elsie Lindsey pulled his wife and three children from the quarry after they had become panicky.

The quarry has been used as a swimming pool since it was abandoned two years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey had gone to the pool to permit their children to swim.

When one child waded into deep water and was unable to swim, the other children went to his rescue. All became panicky and Mrs. Lindsey went to the rescue.

The struggling children in an effort to save themselves, were about to drown their mother when the father leaped into the water and pulled all four to the bank.
