

Mine Worker Is Killed by Falling Ore

MORIAH—Joseph Bladis Kozlo, 40, of Kitherbee was killed when he was struck by a piece of iron ore and fell 300 feet in a Republic Steel Corp. mine here Monday.

Kozlo, a stone driller, was working at the 430-foot level in the Clonan section of Old Bed mine when the accident happened.

According to Troop B, State Police investigation, a piece of falling ore struck Kozlo, knocking him down the slope into the shaft. He landed on the No. 6 level.

He suffered multiple skull fracture and a crushed chest. Coroner John S. Iller of Essex County will hold an inquest.

1951 11 19 Moriah NY falling material
fatal

Clipped By:
usmra_rob
Aug 29, 2024