

YET THE MAN LIVES.

Calumet Miner Falls Down Mine Shaft and Cracks Skull.

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—William Kitti fell down the shaft at the South Hecla of the Calumet & Hecla mine yesterday and fractured his skull all the way around. Strange to say, although the entire brain was exposed, Kitti lived until he was taken to the hospital and his wounds dressed, the skull placed back in position and the physicians claim that, unless a severe type of brain fever sets in, he will recover. At present he is resting nicely.

1899 William Kitti rescued after fall down mine shaft

Clipped By:

usmra_rob
Tue, Mar 9, 2021