

Miner Rescued, Then Died.

Helena, Mont., June 1.—As a result of a cave-in at the famous Hope Mine, at Basin, Charles Collins, a miner, was caught beneath many tons of debris. The rescuers were more than surprised at the end of 17 hours of work to find him absolutely uninjured, the timbers having protected him. So great was the fright from the experience, however, that Collins decided to lay off and went to Butte, where he dropped dead.

1907 Charles Collins rescued after 17 hrs from the Hope Mine drops dead

Clipped By:

usmra_rob
Tue, Apr 6, 2021