

TWO BURIED MINERS SAVED

Rescued by Comrades After Fifty Hours in Tomb Caused by Cave-In.

Third Man Dead Under Fallen Rock.
Body Not Recovered, Although Digging Continues.

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 13.—After working without cessation for 48 hours, two of the three men imprisoned in the East Holmes Gangway of the East Colliery at Big Mine Run, near Ashland, were rescued alive this afternoon.

The rescued miners are John Dolan, of Big Mine Run, and Anthony Tamashitos, of Girardville.

The third man, Peter Zemonskle, is buried beneath the fallen rock which had imprisoned the three men at the face of the gangway. He is dead. His body has not been recovered although the work of removing the loose rock and coal is being continued. Dolan and Tamashitos are uninjured.

The meeting between the rescued men and their wives and children was most touching. Many men and women in the big crowd wept at the sight of the overjoyed families embracing those who had been given up for dead.

The men said they could hear the muffled sounds of the work of the rescuers which grew more distinct as they approached nearer to the small place in which they were imprisoned in the gangway. They knew nothing of the missing companion. Peter Zemonskle, who was probably killed outright by the first fall of top coal.

The men had been in the mine 50 hours.

1911 Two miners rescued after 50 hrs from cavein at Bast Colliery

Clipped By:

usmra_rob

Sun, May 23, 2021