

Miner Rewarded for Bravery

PITTSTON, Pa., April 5.—James Flanagan, of this city, has just received $1000 in cash from the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission for valor displayed in carrying two men through a mine fire to safety five years ago. He received a gold medal for his act and was told that he would receive a cash prize later on. Flanagan rescued John Mullery and John Derrig from the fire. Both had been caught in an explosion that set the No. 6 mine of the Pennsylvania Coal Company on fire.
