

MINER TWICE CHEATS DEATH IN ORE STOPE

SAN ANDREAS (Calaveras Co.), Dec. 26.—Herman Cordes, Jr., has a bad scalp wound. He is bruised and shaken. Yet Herman is not complaining. He thinks it could be worse.

Cordes fell 100 feet in an ore stope at the Carson Hill Mine.

Fellow workers were about to dump a carload of rock when they heard shouts at the bottom of the stope. They held back the ore and rescued Cordes.

Six stitches were taken to close a cut on his head.

1933 Herman Cordes rescued after 100 foot fall in mine

Clipped By:

usmra_rob
Fri, Feb 26, 2021