

MINER IS RESCUED FROM UNDER FALL

Michael Mensick, 32, of Shenandoah, was at work in an independent mine operation near Wiggans shortly after the noon hour yesterday afternoon when he was buried under a rush of rock and debris. Fellow workmen quickly effected rescue of the unfortunate miner, but not before he had suffered severe head and chest injuries. He was taken to the Locust Mountain state hospital, at Shenandoah, for treatment.

1934 Michael Mesnick rescued from rush of coal in independent mine

