

ENTOMBED MINER RESCUED ALIVE

Man Trapped Several Hours Behind
Heavy Fall of Rock and Coal.

Steve Serina, Lansford, employed as a miner at the Lehigh Navigation Coal Company's No. 9 colliery in the Panther Creek valley, was rescued alive yesterday afternoon after he had been trapped several hours back of a heavy rush of rock and coal.

Serina was at work alone on the gangway at the time of the accident. Other workmen had gone from the working place to obtain required material. When they returned it was to discover the fall and the entombment of their fellow workman. Rescue forces worked heroically several hours to find Serina safely hidden on a ledge. He was uninjured.

1935 Steve Serina rescued from cavein at Lehigh Nav No 9 mine

Clip
t
Sat, J