

MOUNT CARMEL BOOTLEG MINER RESCUED ALIVE

Youth Imprisoned Five Hours by Fall in Mine Near Germantown

INJURIES ARE MINOR

Leo Shuder, 21. of South Chestnut Street, Mount Carmel, was a entombed shortly after noon yesentombed shortly after noon yesterday by collapse of a bootleg of tain, near Germantown, on the highway between Mount Carmel and Ashland, and was rescued alive at 5:30 last evening.

Shuder, who resides on the same street at Mount Carmel as Frank and Boley Ostroski, trapped Thursday night in a bootleg mine collapse at Morris Ridge, was working with Charles Raulinaitis, 21, and Edward Davis, 21, both of Mount Carmel.

According to the two buddless Shuder was working at the fact of a gangway at the bottom of a combination shaft and slope whet the top broke. He was caught with a heavy piece of mine timbe across his neck and back. He has been working alone undergroun while the others were on the surface attending to some other duties. His cries for help attraced his Miners from adjoining bootile holes were summoned to the rescu and a messenger was sent to Mour Carmel for additional help. In the meantime the other two worker had entered the mine and began (Continued on Page J. Column 5).

1940 Leo Shuder rescued after 5 hrs trapped in bootleg coal mine

Fr

CI

Copyright © 2021 Newspapers.com. All Rights Reserved.

Newspapers

Bootleg Miner Rescued Alive

imprisoned man talked with his companions and said he was not bodly hurt.

Mine Inspector James Quigley, of Mount Carmel, who had been assisting in directing the rescue assisting in directing the rescue of the Ostroski brothers at Morris Ridge, was notified of the second mine accident and left to direct rescue work there.

The mining official, upon his arrival, found conditions much the same as in the hole in which the Ostroskis had been entombed. Shuder and his companions had sunk a shaft to a depth of 40 feet and from this had driven a slope 90 feet on a pitch of 45 degrees. Quigley directed the assembling and placing of timbers and then the removal of debris. Through cautious procedure Shuder was released at 5300 and hoisted to the surface. There an ambulance awaited and convered him to Ashland State Hospital, where surgeons found that other than shock and a few bruises, the man had had miraculous escape from death. Milning officiak at the scene of both entombments said the mild weather of the past several days had been responsible for two entombments. With the ground frozen soldly since last Christmas, bootleg miners had not been bothered with water and attendant soft top. Since the beginning of the current week there have been rain and thaws with the result water trickled through the ground, making it soggy and heavy and caused working places.

1940 Leo Shuder rescued after 5 hrs trapped in bootleg coal mine

Fr

CI

Copyright © 2021 Newspapers.com. All Rights Reserved.

Newspapers™