

Deer Hunter Rescued From Mine Shaft

EATONVILLE, Wash., Oct. 25. (AP) — A deer hunter was rescued from an abandoned mine shaft near here yesterday 18 hours after he had fallen into the 40-foot pit.

Second Lt. James Clinkingbeard, of Fort Lewis, was pulled from the shaft by a search party organized after his hunting companion, Lt. Joseph Jacob, also of Fort Lewis, reported that Clinkingbeard had failed to return to their car at nightfall Saturday.

Sheriff's officers said the officer tumbled 40 feet down the shaft and landed on water and rocks at its bottom. He fractured a wrist in the fall.
