

Miners Killed In Montana Shaft Cave-In

ROUNDUP, Mont. AP—Four coal miners were killed Tuesday afternoon in a rock fall at a mine just east of Roundup in central Montana.

The accident occurred shortly before 3 p.m. at the Montana Queen mine of the Mountain States Mining company.

Ed Nicholson, company manager, identified the dead as Martin Meznarich, 54; Frank Nose, 45; Jim Molnar, 48, and George Larson, all of Roundup.

Details of the accident were not available.

The Montana Queen mine is one of two Roundup mines sharing in a contract to furnish coal for the Atomic Energy commission's plant at Hanford, Wash. The other is the Roundup Mining company's No. 3 mine.

1958 Montana Queen mine cavein kills four

Clipped By:

usmra_rob

Tue, Mar 5, 2024