

150 MEN, TRAPPED IN MINE, RESCUED

NANTICOKE, Pa., July 21 (AP)—Fire in an air shaft trapped 150 miners for more than an hour today in a Glen Nan Coal Co. mine. All were rescued.

Stanley Ftorkowski, Nanticoke fire chief, said at least 10 miners were taken unconscious to Nanticoke State hospital suffering from smoke inhalation.

A spokesman at the mine, two miles south of this hard coal community, said 160 men were working in the mine when the fire broke out.

The spokesman said 10 were taken out and sent immediately to Nanticoke State hospital suffering from smoke inhalation.

Ambulances from all nearby hospitals were dispatched to the scene some 110 miles north of Philadelphia.

There was no immediate indication whether there were exits to the mine other than the one apparently now blocked by the fire.

1966 150 miners trapped more than an hour by fire in Glen Nan Coal mine rescued

Clipped By:

usmra_rob
Thu, May 6, 2021