No Beer, Yet. A chill in the street. Lady Aler is fresh. Half inch at a time.

No beer, in a hurry. The house of representatives debated by 4 votes Mr. Garner's joint resolution for repeal of the 18th amendment.

Failure of Mr. Garner's resolution may mean an extra session. It is probable that having gone on record against repeal, the "dumb don't" session will not take up the question of Volstead act amendments.

Wolstead which has been having a fever, chill one day, fever the next, in the end will prevail. It has both fever and chill during the recent discussion.

The beer bill would not make much difference. Anybody who imagines that hundreds of millions will be collected in beer tax, with no other tax distributions, is a fool.

Each of us is what circumstances make of us. Nobody that is not a member would also be a member of a million dollars a year or more.

It is even possible that Lady Aler would be something of a companion if her husband, Lord Aler, were in this hunger muddle, and she were with him, dragging two or three hungry children on foot.

A kind hearted man whose dog had a long tail in the fashion that a man must have, had a long tail, and had the heart to cut it off.

That is what kind hearted Germany seeks to be planning for some of the private American leaders who want her humiliated and humiliated.

Professor H. H. H. is indignant that respectable American leaders want him humiliated and humiliated as a "red" communist and humiliated.

Japan is kind enough to give a new plan for reducing armaments. Very thoughtful, but does the nation need suggestions for reducing armaments from anybody?

Who can simply tell the country and lead to have it. We are perfectly peaceful, but we only defend for all of us. But we don't need any advice about protecting the United States. And it is up to you, come here, look around your own nation, of what would happen to any country attacking the United States.

Automobile production last week totaled 11,818 against 17,415 in the same week last year. The increase is small compared with 1931 and 1932, but any gain is a gain.

ALL VICTIMS OF MADRID BLAST ACCOUNTED FOR AFTER DAY OF ANXIETY

Wives of the Dead, Who Waited With Hope and Fear in Their Hearts Near Mouth of Colliery, Follow Bodies, Sorrowfully to Morgue; State Mine Inspector Begins Investigation and Will Be Joined by Federal Officials

(By a Staff Correspondent of the Journal)

MADRID, N. M., Dec. 7.—The bodies of 15 men killed in an explosion in the Morgan Jones mine about 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, were brought to the surface at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Several hundred persons were waiting on the hillside to furnish warmth to the watchers, presenting a grim picture.

As the stretcher bearers, each with his miner's lantern on his cap, loaded the bodies heavily covered with blankets onto waiting open trucks, watchers waiting on the hillside to furnish warmth to the watchers, presenting a grim picture.

The bodies were taken to the hospital of the Albuquerque and Cerrillos company, where again several hundred persons, including many of the wives, children and relatives of the dead miners, were waiting.

A few hours after the first report of the explosion, a check up revealed that 14 men were missing and their names were determined by others who were in the mine at the time of the explosion, but who escaped alive.

At the time the bodies were removed, relatives had not entirely given up hope. They did not rush to the trucks on which the bodies were placed, but stoically they waited the funeral cortege of the five rough trucks to the company hospital, converted into a morgue for the occasion.

The dead: Tony Cabalidon, 57; Augustine Padilla, 58; Angel Ortiz, 34; Guadalupe Morales, 25; Pablo Escarino, 32; Julian Yonastria, 24; Manuel Cabrera, 24; Telefor Macias, 20; Damacio Perez, 44; Juan Garcia, 42; Juan Acosta, 40; Francisco Toranzo, 25; Rafael Garcia, 24; Eusebio Ramos, 21.

All were married men with the exception of Ramos. At the hospital the bodies were laid out in rows and each miner's exact age, weight, height and other data were noted.
