Killed by fall of coal. He was engaged undermining coal in a room that had been shattered by a previous blast. Instantly killed by electricity. He was taking his tools into No. 7 right flat, and as no one saw the accident, it is supposed that in trying to open a door his tools came in contact with an electric wire carrying 500 volts. Instantly killed by fall of slate. From the evidence and appearance of the room he was shoveling coal from under it without any posts. Fatally injured by car. He, with two other men, was running a car down grade when a wheel broke, and in attempting to set a brake he fell under car. Outside. Instantly killed by a car. He was engaged pushing an empty car into his room mouth when he was struck by a loaded car, breaking his neck. He had been warned by a driver of his danger. Killed by fall of slate. He was loading coal in an entry and did not have the slate properly posted. He was taken to the Greensburg Hospital, where he died November 21. Overcome by smoke from a mine fire. Killed by blast. He was working in a room at the face in which he prepared a blast. After igniting it he retreated some distance and hearing the report of a blast returned, but when within a few feet of the blast, it exploded.

Killed by explosion of gas and dust.
