

TEN ARE RESCUED FROM FLOODED MINE AT TUSKALOOSA TODAY.

Caps of the Other Three Found Floating on the Water and They are Supposed to Be Dead---Entombed Miners Were Reached at 6 O'Clock This Morning.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala, Feb. 23.—1 p. m.—Ten of the thirteen negroes entombed in the hospital mines were rescued about six o'clock this morning. The other three are believed to be dead as their caps were found floating in the water.

The men had a very exciting time but were in good spirits when taken out. The rescued men are being taken care of by the authorities. The bodies of the other three have not yet been found.

TUSCALOOSA, February 23.—Work of rescuing the miners entombed in the hospital mines progressed all night.

Prof. George Wilkins, who was in charge of the relief work, stated yesterday afternoon that he felt sure the men will be reached today. He also stated that he had hopes that the men will be found alive. Every effort was put forward by the hospital authorities to relieve the men. The scene of the disaster has been crowded with a crowd of anxious watchers ever since Vednesday afternoon.
