

Trapped Miner Saved After 20-Hour Ordeal

---

TAMAQUA, Pa., May 10.—(UP) Fellow workers lifted William Hosler from a collapsed 40-foot bootleg coal hole tonight after the 26-year-old miner had been entombed 20 hours under earth and timbers.

Hosler suffered possible fractures of the left arm and right leg when the makeshift shaft collapsed on him early today.

Twelve fellow miners had worked to remove the tons of earth which trapped Hosler.

The cave-in occurred not far from the bootleg hole where Anthony Vinscavage was rescued recently after 27 hours' entombment.

The Atlanta Constitution, May 11, 1937