

Saved From Death in Mine Shaft

Special to The Inquirer.

HAZLETON, Pa., July 22.—John Dusheck, of Freeland, saved Miss Emma Martin, of New York city, from a horrible death in the Pond Creek mines. Dusheck was conducting a sight-seeing party through the mines, when a gust of wind blew out the lights. Miss Martin went ahead in the dark and was on the brink of a shaft one hundred feet deep, when Dusheck seized her, saving her from an awful death. The incident broke up the trip.

---

The Philadelphia Inquirer, July 23, 1905