OVER TWO HUNDRED MINERS KILLED BY EXPLOSION IN WYOMING MINE.

(TRIBUNE SPECIAL.)

Hanna, Wyo., June 30.—The visit of a miner into a condemned entry in mine No. 1 of the Union Pacific Coal company at this place, at 10:25 o'clock this morning, resulted in an explosion which caused the death of over two hundred men, the partial destruction of the mine workings by fire and the worst mine horror in the history of Wyoming. The latest estimate of the number of victims is two hundred and thirteen.

It is the general opinion that the explosion started beyond the bottom of the slope, which is in 6,000 feet, and the force having been spent in the direction of the mine entrance, it is believed there is no danger of a second explosion. It is believed the mine is on fire in the rooms at No. 4 entrance, only a few hundred feet from the surface.

Every effort is being made to get into the mine from the pit's mouth, but thus far (10 p. m.) without success.

(TRIBUNE SPECIAL.)

Hanna, Wyo., June 30.—The visit of a miner into a condemned entry in mine No. 1 of the Union Pacific Coal company at this place resulted in an explosion which caused the death of over two hundred men, the partial destruction of the mine workings by fire and the worst mine horror in the history of Wyoming.

DUE TO CARELESSNESS.

At 10:25 o'clock this morning a miner walked into a condemned entry of the colliery. The instant the accumulated gas came in contact with his lamp a fearful explosion occurred.

OVER TWO HUNDRED AT WORK

Over two hundred men were at work at the time, and of this number all perished except about twenty-five. Five followed the explosion and the smoke which poured from the pit's mouth was so dense that attempt at rescue by the surface men had to be abandoned for the time being.

RESCUES OVERCOME.

At noon Superintendent Brooks and a rescue party forced their way into the mine. The dense smoke rendered their progress extremely difficult, as well as dangerous, and several of the rescue party were overcome and were sent to the surface.

MANGLED MINERS FOUND.

At 1 o'clock the rescuers reached the interior workings, and on the third story or level found several miners badly mangled but living, and a short distance further the dead bodies of several others.

SAY ALL ARE DEAD.

Those among the living who were able to talk said that the men who were at work further in on this level were undoubtedly dead, the number being placed at over 200.

AID FROM RAILROAD.

Railroads and Laramie were at once notified of the disaster and appeals for help were made to aid in rebuilding the mine and the rescuers and nurses to care for any injured that might be rescued.

EFFORTS TO EXTINGUISH FIRE.

The first train to arrive was from the west, and it reached here at 12 o'clock. Volunteers at once went into the colliery under the direction of the superintendent to aid in extinguishing the fire.
