

Rescued From a Burning Mine.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 30.—Fourteen workmen were rescued from a burning mine at Olyphant at 5 a. m., after having been imprisoned all night. The rescued party comprised Wm. Evans, the foreman; Frank Benni, the engineer, and Patrick Brennan, Charles Williams, Frank McCable and nine Hungarian laborers.

The men were employed in putting in brattice work and in making other repairs in the Lackawanna Coal Co.'s colliery Friday evening when a fire started in an engine room at the foot of an air shaft.

Waterloo Times, January 3, 1895