

Slate Picker Killed.

Charles Viorenik Wojnlek, aged 14, a slate picker employed at Auchincloss breaker, was caught in a horizontal shaft on the shaker floor and whirled to death before the machinery could be stopped. While stooping over to oil the shaft his coat was caught and the fatal whirl began, which caused his death. His body, which was mangled very badly, was removed to his home on Union street.

Wilkesbarre Times Leader, November 16, 1910